

Lead Engine Blueprint

Howdy beautiful automator,

If you can explain to AI who you're targeting, what your offer is, and their pain points, the conversion rates of your copy will increase.

It's that simple.

Here is what I would like you to do:

- ☕ Grab a coffee
- 📄 Grab a sheet of paper
- 🧠 Work through the below
- 🗣️ Ask the community for feedback
- 🔥 Paste the results into you AI System Prompt

1. Avatar Demographic

Question: Add your viewers' sex, age, and location.

Example

- Sex: Female
- Age: 18–30
- Location: Canada, Australia, New Zealand (urban areas, college towns, remote freelancers)

2. Viewers' Top 3 Problems

Question: Add your viewers' top 3 problems.

Example

- 1) Struggling to land their first freelance clients online
- 2) Lack of confidence in marketing themselves
- 3) Unsure how to turn side hustles into consistent monthly income

3. Top of Umbrella

Question: Add your “I help X get Y” statement.

Example

“I help creative freelancers build consistent income streams by teaching them how to market and package their skills effectively.”

4. Credibility

Question: List three things that make you credible.

- Example
- Published in Forbes, Entrepreneur, and Medium on freelance business growth.
- Built a personal freelancing business from $0 to $10k/month in under a year.
- Mentored 500+ freelancers through workshops and online courses.

5. Your Backstory

Question: Write your 150–300 word backstory.

Example

I started out in corporate finance at a Fortune 500 company, managing budgets and processes that felt more like red tape than real impact. In the evenings and weekends, I began experimenting with a side project: building simple digital marketing funnels for local businesses.

Within a year, that project grew to the point where it replaced my salary. I quit my job, went all-in, and scaled the business to 2,000 paying customers and $40,000/month in revenue. Eventually, I sold it, giving me both capital and the confidence to start my next venture.

Since then, I've built multiple online businesses—some bootstrapped, some partnered—and consistently grown them into six- and seven-figure operations. Along the way, I've helped thousands of entrepreneurs cut through complexity and actually implement strategies that drive revenue, not just theory.

My journey has always been about taking something small—an idea, a skill, a piece of tech—and pushing it until it becomes a system that works at scale. That's what I now teach others to do.

6. Viewer Knowledge Level

Question: Describe the knowledge level of your viewers.

Example

Most of my viewers are complete beginners in freelancing, curious about leaving their jobs or starting a side hustle. They understand social media platforms like Instagram and LinkedIn but aren't sure how to use them for business. Roughly 20% already freelance part-time and are looking for strategies to increase their rates and scale. Very few are advanced, but they tend to tune in for mindset shifts and marketing frameworks that apply even at higher levels.

7. Your Offer

Question: What is your offer?

Example

My offer is a 12-week coaching program called "Freelancer Fast-Track".

- Who it's for: Beginners and early-stage freelancers who are struggling to land consistent clients.

- What it includes: Weekly live calls, personalized feedback on proposals and portfolios, ready-to-use templates, and a private community for accountability.
- The outcome: By the end of the program, members have a packaged service, a client-getting system, and a proven roadmap to hit their first $3–5k/month in freelancing income.

In short: I help freelancers stop guessing and start earning consistently.
